the Collateral Said to Be Absolutely Worthless.

Some rather startling developments in the affairs of the Harlem River Bank | People in the past have been accustomed to re will it is said, come out when Receiver Sickels finishes his examination of the Considerable comment has been caused by the extraordinary efforts made by the directors and stockholders of the Harlem River Bank to get the bank out of the hands of Receiver Stockels, and with one of their own number in that position, wind up its affairs themselves. They have held meetings, and last night appointed a committee, headed by the President, to petition the Court to remove the present receiver and make Cashier Hinckley permanent receiver.

The significance of this is apparent when it is known that the President and directors have demand loans in the bank ranging from $1,000 to $15,000, and that they are also makers of and indorsers on a large amount of time and call paper held by the bank. The business house in which one of the directors is a partner has call loans in the bank for more than $12,000.

All these and a great many other facts regarding the bank were learned from some of the officials and employees who

than $12,000.

All these and a great many other facts regarding the bank were learned from some of the officials and employees, who are disgrantied over the way things are going, and are willing to talk. The story told by these persons, if true, puts the affairs of the bank in a different light from what they have heretofore been regarded.

They allege that the following is a correct statement of the indebtedness of the President and directors of the Harlem River Bank in the shape of Casier Hinckley, who wants to be made permanent receiver, also has a loan or two in the bank, the exact amount of which could not be learned. The above are all call loans, and it was said that Receiver David B. Slokels called all this paper on May 4. Mr. Slokels, when seen to-day, was surprised to hear that the statement of the indebtedness of the directors was known, but would not deny its correctness. He did not care to talk about the affair of the hank, but admitted that he had sent out a call for all the loans made to the officials of the bank, and that up to this morning he has not received a single response.

Mr. Sickels thinks there is something in connection with some of the loans to directors that will bear more explanation, from the fact that among the collateral paper of former directors was considered.

They offered no further explanation of their refusal to pay what they apparent you do to be the bank. The receiver is determined to get at the bottom of the mystery.

As an illustration of the character of some of the collateral held on loans made by the bank, it is stated that for a loan of over $1.400 the collateral consists only of the assignment of a claim for damages against the Third Avenue Raliroal Company. Another piece of demand paper, due since 1890 for several thousand dollars, has for collateral two checks, dated in June, 1890, on which payment was stopped.

Other collateral consists of real estate capable only of slow realization; stocks in trade oil paintings and tradesmen's indorsements.
